Belt Collins Ranked #136 in Top 200 International Design Firms List Firm is the only Hawai‘i-based company to make the list

HONOLULU, HI – Belt Collins, a Hawai‘i-based planning, design and consulting firm made the Engineering News-Record (ENR) 2010 Top 200 International Design Firms list. Belt Collins, an international planning, civil engineering, landscape architecture, and environmental consulting firm, was ranked #136 on the list that was published on July 26, 2010 by ENR. The firm reported international revenues of $44.4 million in 2009, with $30.6 million of that derived from outside of the U.S. Belt Collins was the only Hawai‘i-based firm to make this year’s list.

The ENR Top 200 International Design Firms list is based on the design revenue of each firm surveyed. It contains the rankings by 2009 revenue of the Top 200 international engineers, architects and consultants based on non-home country revenue. ENR covers the business and technical news of the global business and construction industry, and is the recognized source of important information among owners, contractors and design and engineering professionals. The complete list of companies can be viewed here:
